MKE ARTS LIVE! - Podcast #3

The Art of Art

Milwaukee Institute of Art & Design

The arts are big business in Milwaukee and contribute to our economy and quality of life.

Studies show that patrons spend time and money where there's a vibrant arts scene.

Milwaukee's thriving performing arts scene is a draw to our community. New restaurants, shops and hotels open to meet visitor demand. New companies move to our region and are able to attract talented employees because the performing arts make our community a better place.

Filmed in the Frederick Layton Gallery at MIAD and hosted by Adam Carr, UPAF's third MKE ARTS LIVE! podcast features performances by the Racine Symphony Orchestra and Present Music, as well as a behind-the-scenes video of the prop department at Milwaukee Rep.

The show's second segment, a one-on-one interview features Suzan Feté, co-founder and artistic director for Renaissance Theaterworks. She then joins a panel discussion including:

- Eric Vogel, Assistant Professor of Interior Architecture & Design - MIAD
- Jim Guy, Properties Director - Milwaukee Rep
- Malkia Stampley, local actor, director and producer

We hope you watch and enjoy this special podcast on arts education. And, don't forget to find your performance at mkearts.com!
